

Help! Ms. College: A question of statistics ...

Ms College : Come in.

Jane : Good morning, Ms College.

Ms College : Good morning, Jane. Can I help you ?

Jane : Well, since last week Julian and I have been worried about our presentation in Sociology. Since we started this course we have not been able to find statistics on leisure activities. Can you help us ?

Ms College : Since this course started I have given my students a list of statistics. You have had one week since last Friday to find these. You leave everything until the last minute....

Jane : Yes, I know. Time passed very quickly since last week. We have been taken by surprise...

Ms College : OK. The statistics are there. There are lots. You will have too many to choose from. So. Off you go.

Jane : Success, my friend! Since I spoke to her we have all the information we need. Ms College is a darling!

Julian : I know you have liked her since we started this course. She is your favourite.

Jane : So. Since we now have what we need let us get started!

Julian : Wait! Hang on! Since last Friday I have done some research.

Jane : Tell me what you have discovered, since you have done so much work. We can add it to this material.

Julian : And then we can go to the cinema since we have worked so hard. Remember, you promised!

Help! Ms. College: The presentation

- Ms College : Well, how have you been since last week?
Jane : Well, since I spoke to you last week, we have had much information to work with!
Julian : Since I started here as a student I have never had to do a presentation.
Jane : It has been a part of this programme since 2004! I have become interested in the work since I began this research! I was excited about doing the presentation.
Julian : I am becoming interested too. The presentation was a success.
Jane : Since we are interested in the subject people listen!
Julian : Our lives have changed since last week. Thank you, Ms College.

- Jane : Well, Julian, how have things been since the presentation?
Julian : Very well, my friend. Since we spoke to Ms college I have wanted to ask her out for a drink
Jane : I think since she is a member of staff that is not possible. But since you want to, why not ask anyway? If she does not accept you could offer her flowers since that is more acceptable.
Julian : Hey! That is a bit too much. She is older than me.
Jane : OK. Let us think again since you have doubts. She has worked here since 2001. You could offer to celebrate her anniversary. What do you say to that, Joe?
Julian : Joe? Who is this Joe?
Jane : Oh! Forget it since I have confused you with someone else in the university.
Julian : What???
